During the period October 2002 to around 2005 various freight forwarders including BAX Global Ltd in the United Kingdom participated in discussions aimed at achieving the introduction of a so called NES fee for shipments by air originating in the United Kingdom. The NES fee was to be applied in connection with costs arising through the application of a pre-clearance system introduced by the United Kingdom's customs authorities for shipments leaving the United Kingdom.

During July 2004 freight forwarders including Schenker Deutschland AG, (a company affiliated to Schenker SA) in Germany participated in discussions aimed at achieving the introduction of a so called AMS fee for shipments by air to the US originating in Germany. 2.2.4 Hong Kong air Peak Season Surcharge ("PSS"):

During the period August 2005 to May 2007 various freight forwarders including Schenker International (H.K.) Ltd and BAX Global Limited (Hong Kong) in Hong Kong participated in discussions aimed at exchanging information, such as start and end dates and approximate amounts, regarding the introduction of a peak season surcharge or PSS for shipments by air originating in Hong Kong, Macau and south China. The PSS was designed to compensate freight forwarders for the rate increases imposed upon them by the air carriers during busy periods for air cargo shipments.
