

RADEBE V SOSIBO

This judgment discusses the different purposes for which an antenuptial contract incorporating the accrual system is entered into, the process whereby any such accrual is calculated and effected, why an antenuptial contract is not a testamentary document and cannot be assumed to dispose of assets on death.